OUR ENVIRONMENTS IMPACT OUR HEALTH. The Environmental Health Coalition recognizes that upstream factors affect the health of communities downstream. The Coalition works to create healthier communities for all through partnerships, information-sharing and elevating environmental health.

WHO WE ARE
The Environmental Health Coalition is a group of environmental health professionals acting as a unified voice for environmental health. The Coalition promotes environmental health through resource-sharing and coordinating efforts around these priority areas:

- Climate change
- Environmental health communication
- Environmental health workforce and education
- Systems and infrastructure

OUR MISSION
The Environmental Health Coalition collaborates to create healthier communities for all.

OUR VISION
A unified voice for environmental health through collaborative partnerships and resources.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS
- National Public Health Week Environmental Health Toolkits
- Hosted webinars and a Twitter Chat to elevate environmental health
- Promotion of World Environmental Health Day

The Environmental Health Coalition is supported by cooperative agreement U38OT000131 between the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the American Public Health Association. The contents of this document are solely the responsibility of the Environmental Health Coalition and do not necessarily represent the official views of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention or the American Public Health Association.